Air District issues Spare the Air Smog Alert

SAN FRANCISCO - Today the Bay Area Air Quality Management District issued the third Spare the Air Smog Alert for 2010.

Air quality in the Bay Area is forecast to be unhealthy tomorrow, Wednesday, September 1. There is no free transit tomorrow and there is no wood burning ban in place. The Air District encourages residents to drive less and reduce their energy use.

"On this third Spare the Air Smog Alert of the summer, it is important for Bay Area residents to remember to take action every day to reduce air pollution in the region," said Jack Broadbent, executive officer of the Air District. "Taking transit, carpooling, walking or biking will help everyone breathe easier."

Motor vehicle exhaust, gasoline vapors, industrial emissions and household chemicals contain volatile organic compounds and nitrogen oxides that combine with oxygen in the presence of heat and sunlight to form ground-level ozone. Breathing ozone can cause throat irritation, congestion and chest pain. It can trigger asthma, inflame the lining of the lungs and worsen bronchitis and emphysema.

Long-term exposure to ozone can reduce lung function. High levels of ozone pollution are particularly harmful for young children, seniors and those with respiratory and heart conditions. Vigorous outdoor exercise should be undertaken only in the early morning hours when ozone concentrations are lower. The Air District issues Spare the Air Alerts whenever air quality is forecast to reach unhealthy concentrations.

A list of simple things the public can do to make clean air choices every day:

- Bike to work or around town
- Take public transit
- Work at home or telecommute
- Carpool and link your errands to reduce driving
- Avoid using gas-powered lawn mowers and leaf blowers
- Reduce household energy use
- Cook indoors, not on the barbecue
- Avoid using aerosol spray cleaners, paints and hairspray
