FROM: Bay Area Air Quality Management District

RE: Permit Applications #26777 and #26975 for the following source(s) of air pollution:

(2) Standby Generator – Diesel Engines
Chinese Hospital
845 Jackson Street
San Francisco, CA 94133

The Bay Area Air Quality Management District (the “District”) is a local agency that regulates stationary sources of air pollution such as factories, industrial sites, and gasoline stations.

Whenever we receive a permit application for a new or modified source(s) of toxic air contaminants located within 1,000 feet of a school site, State law requires that we notify the public. To comply with this requirement, we distribute or mail a Public Notice to the parents or guardians of students enrolled at schools located within ¼ mile, and all residents and businesses located within 1,000 feet, of the proposed source(s).

You are receiving this Public Notice because a permit application has been filed with the District for the above referenced source(s) of air pollution. A description of the proposed project follows:

Chinese Hospital has applied for permits to operate (2) Diesel Powered Standby Generators. These generators will be used only for emergency power during outages, but will be operated for short periods of time (no more than 50 hours per year) for maintenance and testing purposes.

PRELIMINARY EVALUATION

The District has evaluated the permit application for the proposed project and has made a determination that the project is expected to comply with all applicable District, state, and federal air quality-related regulations, including the health risks resulting from toxic air contaminant emissions. The preliminary recommendation is to issue a permit for this project. After considering all comments received, the District will make a final determination.
