Air quality advisory for smoke extended for the Bay Area through Wednesday

Possible smoke impacts in parts of the North Bay from the Irving Fire in West Marin

SAN FRANCISCO – The Bay Area Air Quality Management District is extending an air quality advisory for potential smoke in parts of Marin, Western Napa and Sonoma Counties through Wednesday, September 12.

On Wednesday, parts of Marin, Western Napa and Sonoma Counties may experience air quality impacts as strong winds potentially push smoke eastward from the Irving Fire in West Marin County.

Although fine particulate concentrations may rise and visibility may be impacted, air quality is expected to remain in the moderate range. The Air District is not forecasting an exceedance of the federal air quality health standards for the region and is not issuing a Spare the Air alert.

If the smell of smoke is present, it is important that Bay Area residents protect their health by avoiding exposure. If possible, stay inside with windows and doors closed until smoke levels subside. Set air conditioning units and car vent systems to re-circulate to prevent outside air from moving inside. Smoke can irritate the eyes and airways, causing coughing, a dry scratchy throat and irritated sinuses. Elevated particulate matter in the air can trigger wheezing in those who suffer from asthma, emphysema or COPD. Elderly persons, children and individuals with respiratory illnesses are particularly susceptible to elevated air pollution levels and should take extra precautions to avoid exposure.
