Air quality advisory for wildfire smoke extended through Wednesday Smoky skies expected to continue in Bay Area due to Mineral Fire and fires in Northern California

SAN FRANCISCO – The Bay Area Air Quality Management District is extending the air quality advisory through Wednesday due to smoke from the Mineral Fire in Fresno County and the Hog and Gold Fires in Lassen County.

Smoke from the fires is expected to impact the Bay Area through Wednesday. Smoke will likely remain aloft resulting in smoky and hazy skies, but PM<sub>2.5</sub> is not expected to exceed the national 24-hour standard. Air quality is expected to be in the good to moderate range. The Air District will be closely monitoring air quality throughout the region for smoke impacts from the fires.

If the smell of smoke is present, it is important that Bay Area residents protect their health by avoiding exposure. If possible, stay inside with windows and doors closed until smoke levels subside, if temperatures allow. It is also recommended that those impacted by smoke set their air conditioning units and car vent systems to re-circulate to prevent outside air from moving inside.

Smoke can irritate the eyes and airways, causing coughing, a dry scratchy throat and irritated sinuses. Elevated particulate matter in the air can trigger wheezing in those who suffer from asthma, emphysema or COPD. Elderly persons, children and individuals with respiratory illnesses are particularly susceptible to elevated air pollution levels and should take extra precautions to avoid exposure.
